

January 15, 2020

238 Prospect St.
New Haven, CT 06517 USA

To Whom It May Concern:

Yale University's Interdisciplinary Center for Bioethics runs the Sherwin B. Nuland Summer Institute in Bioethics each year in New Haven, CT. This year's program will run from June 8 to July 25, 2020.

Participants in this institute are not students at Yale. They have not applied for admission to The University, and they do not receive Yale academic credits during their stay here. The program participants are visitors at Yale, and (if needed) we help them acquire accommodation during the program dates. The program is akin to a conference: morning lectures and afternoon seminars on a wide range of bioethical issues.

If you have any questions about the terms of the program, or would like to verify the attendance of any attendee, please feel free to contact me.

All best,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "L. Bruce". The signature is fluid and cursive.

Lori Bruce
Director, Sherwin B. Nuland Summer Institute in Bioethics
Associate Director, Interdisciplinary Center for Bioethics, Yale University
Chair, Community Bioethics Forum, Yale School of Medicine
Lori.Bruce@Yale.edu
(202) 255-5690 mobile