YALE INTERDISCIPLINARY CENTER FOR BIOETHICS

The Jerame Medalie
End-of-Life Issues Study Group

Four cardinal principles of bioethics are autonomy, beneficence, non-maleficence, and justice. Most presentations for our end-of-life issues study group have focused on the first three. Continuing our theme of last year’s meetings, the focus will again be on justice.

GROUP MEETS FROM 5:30 TO 7 P.M. AT 77 PROSPECT, ROOM A002, YALE UNIVERSITY, INSTITUTION FOR SOCIAL & POLICY STUDIES, UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED. DINNER WILL BE PROVIDED. CME CREDIT IS AVAILABLE.

For further information and/or dinner reservations, please contact laurie.hurshman@yale.edu or carol.pollard@yale.edu.

9.1.09 Conscientious Objection and Moral Distress
Nancy Berlinger, PhD
Deputy Director and Research Scholar
The Hastings Center

10.6.09 Dignity, Liberty, and Human Rights at the Very End of Life
Kathryn L. Tucker, JD
Director of Legal Affairs
Compassion & Choices

11.3.09 Effectiveness of an Integrated Ward-based Program in Preparing Medical Students to care for Patients at the End-of-Life

Panel Discussion
Matthew S. Ellman, MD
Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine/General Medicine
Yale School of Medicine
Julie R. Rosenbaum, MD
Assistant Professor of Medicine
Yale School of Medicine and Waterbury Hospital Health Center, Waterbury, Ct.
Emily Cherlin, MSW
Yale School of Medicine
Margaret Bia, MD
Professor of Internal Medicine/Nephrology
Director of the Clinical Skills Training Program
Yale School of Medicine

12.1.09 Definition of Death: The Current State of the Debate
John P. Lizza, PhD
Professor and Chair of Philosophy
Kutztown University of Pennsylvania

2.2.10 Prognostication: Meaning and Interpretation of an Imprecise Science
David Ross-Russell, MD
ProHealthMD

3.2.10 Justice and Health Care
John Arras, PhD
Professor of Philosophy
Director of the Bioethics Undergraduate Program
University of Virginia

The following lectures will be given at:
Yale School of Medicine
The Child Study Center – Cohen Auditorium
250 Frontage Road, New Haven, CT
(parking in the Air Rights Garage over Route 54)

3.25.10 Justice at End-of-Life
The Jerame Medalie Lecture
Timothy Quill, MD
Professor of Medicine, Psychiatry and Medical Humanities
Center for Ethics, Humanities and Palliative Care
University of Rochester School of Medicine
Co-sponsors: Yale Cancer Center, Yale Humanities in Medicine Program

4.6.10 Extreme Prematurity
John D. Lantos, MD
John B. Francis Chair in Bioethics
Center for Practical Bioethics
Kansas City, Ks.